PROGRAM OF 'PEACE AND TRANQUILITY'

Executive Organizes Cabinet, Seven of Members Being Holdovers From Regime of Ortiz Rubio.

By the Associated Press. MEXICO CITY, Sept. 5.—Gen. Abelardo L. Rodriguez, Mexico's new President, announced today the personnel of his Cabinet, in which there are only two military men.

Seven of the members are holdovers from the regime of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio, who resigned as a result of political difficulties and because of the state of his health.

The new Ministry: Foreign Affairs, Manuel Teller; Treasury, Alberto J. Pani; Agriculture, Francisco Elias; War (as sub-secretary), Gen. Pablo Quirós; Industry, Primo Villa Michel; Interior (as sub-secretary), Eduardo Gasconcelos; Communications, Gen. Miguel M. Acosta; Education, Narciso Bassols; Attorney-General, Emilio Portes Gil; Public Health, Gaston Melo.

The chief of the Federal District (Mexico City) is Gen. Juan G. Cabral.

Senores Teller, Pani, Elias, Acosta, Villa Michel and Bassols were reappointed to the Cabinet. Gen. Quirós takes the place held by Gen. Rodriguez before he became President, and Senor Vasconcelos takes the place of Senor Bassols.

Senor Melo, now chief of the Public Health Department, was one of those who resigned during the recent dispute about the administration of the general hospital—a dispute that contributed to the resignation of President Ortiz Rubio.

Most of Ministers Lawyers. Gen. Quirós was acting Secretary of War when Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles was in power in June, when an operation was performed on Senor Calles.

With the exception of the two military men and Senor Pani, an engineer, all the ministers are lawyers.

United States Ambassador J. Reuben Clark was received briefly by the President today. Tomorrow the entire diplomatic corps will call upon the new executive.

President Hoover and Jack Dempsey were among the Americans who sent congratulations to Senor Rodriguez. There were several hundred messages from the United States, many of them from California.

The President named Gen. Guillermo B. Palma to serve as Chief of Police in place of Manuel Orozco Rubio, cousin of former President Rubio.

Rodriguez, like his friend, Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, known as "man of iron," comes from the northern border State of Sonora, known as "the mother of Mexican Presidents." He was elected by a joint session of Congress to succeed Pascual Ortiz Rubio and was inaugurated shortly after election.

A commission was dispatched to bring him before Congress for the inauguration. He entered accompanied by most of the retiring Cabinet ministers and was sworn in while a squadron of airplanes circled over the building.

The new President pledged himself immediately to continue the existing friendly relations with the United States and said he would form a "serious national Government which will be characterized by unity and action and which will carry confidence and tranquility to the republic."

His act, he added, would be adjusted to "the mandates of the law and the limitations and specifications of the Constitution."

Ortiz Rubio left the Capital for Hot Springs, Ark., by special train before his successor was inaugurated. His train was routed by way of El Paso, Tex. At Hot Springs he hopes to rebuild the failing health that led to his resignation.

Gen. Calles is "Optimistic." At Cuernavaca Calles said he believed Rodriguez would have the genuine support of the country and would head a strong and capable government.

"I believe the political period we have just passed through was a critical one," he said. "It fills me with satisfaction that it is passed safely, because it demonstrates that Mexico has fully entered the period of individual life that I have so long hoped for. I am optimistic."

Rodriguez's Record: Once a Member of High School Baseball Team. Rodriguez was born May 12, 1889, in the small town of San Jose de Guaymas, Sonora, five miles from the port of Guaymas, the son of one of the founders of the City of Nogales, Mex.

His boyhood was spent in part in the United States. He attended school in Nogales, Ariz., where he became an amateur boxer and a member of the high school baseball team. At one time he clerked in a store there.

THINKS SEABURY MAY ENTER RACE IF WALKER RUNS

New York Times Suggests

Attorney Who Conducted Inquiry That Led to Outer Charges.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The New York Times said today that Samuel Seabury, whose charges against James J. Walker led to the latter's resignation last week as Mayor, would be proposed as a fusion candidate for the office in the event Tammany Hall should support the ex-Mayor in the next election.

The Herald Tribune said John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, was "unreservedly for nominating Walker for Mayor this fall."

It also declared the Republicans had held out "the olive branch" to Tammany "by the suggestion that if the Democrats would drop Walker and put up a man of the type of Frank L. Polk, Under-Secretary of State in the Wilson administration, the Republican party might interpose no organization opposition."

The New York American criticized Walker for his attack on Gov. Roosevelt for alleged unfairness at the hearing on charges against the former Mayor and gave warning that his candidacy be "the prelude to a sustained attack" upon the Democratic presidential nominee.

This warning, contained in an editorial by William Randolph Hearst, publisher, declared that "the Hearst papers are sincere and devoted supporters of Gov. Roosevelt."

Disclosing the proposal to put Seabury in nomination, the Times said a conference of Republican leaders of the city would be held next week, probably Wednesday, to discuss the possibility of such a ticket.

Seabury, described by the paper as an independent Democrat and an arch-foe of Tammany, is on his way to Europe for a vacation, but the Times said the Republican leaders believe "there is at least a fair chance he will consent to run."

Mayor Walker spent his first week-end for many years as a private citizen in resting at the Larchmont (N. Y.) home of his friend, A. C. Blumenthal. He was described as tired out from the strain attending his removal hearings and the shock of his brother's death.

Mexican army in 1915, he became a fighter, he progressed steadily through more than 40 important battles. He was wounded three times.

It was not until 1925 that he entered in a prominent way the business of government. Then President Calles named him Governor of the Northern District of Lower California.

In 1928 Rodriguez became a full general and in 1931 he was appointed Sub-Secretary of War.

Early this year he was made Secretary of Industry, Commerce and Labor. He took the war portfolio when Calles resigned two months ago.

THREE U. S. CONSULAR OFFICERS RESCUED FROM PERSIAN BANDITS

Captured by Lur Tribesmen on Main Bagdad-Teheran Road, But Saved by Government Troops, Minister Reports.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—United States Minister Charles C. Hart cabled from Teheran yesterday that three American consular officers had been captured by brigands in a mountain pass between Kermanshah and Hamadan, Persia, the night of Sept. 1, but that they "appear to have been rescued late today (yesterday) by Imperial Persian troops, according to information reaching the Legation."

The three were Robert B. Streep, of Columbus, O., Consul and Third Secretary of Legation at Teheran; Cyril L. F. Thiel, of Chicago, Consul at Jerusalem; and Thomas A. Hickok, of Rochester, Pa., Vice-Consul at Jerusalem.

Hickok, a graduate of Georgetown University, entered the consular service in 1924. Hickok, 35, entered the consular service three years ago and was assigned to Teheran, Ontario, and to Beirut, Syria, before he went to Jerusalem.

State Department officials recalled that, on July 15, 1924, Maj. Robert W. Imbrie, United States Vice-Consul, was beaten and cut to death by a mob of fanatics in Teheran. The leader of the mob was executed.

Rumors over the Caspian Sea, or from Turkey over the Black and Caspian Seas.

The Americans were on their way from Bagdad to Teheran when they were captured. Seven motor cars and two postal vans were looted and mail burned.

There is serious unrest among the Lurs, a powerful nomadic tribe of Western Persia.

Mrs. Streep, whose home was in Elwood, Ind., was a guest at the Teheran Legation when news of her husband's capture was received, but the news was not given her until word came that the Americans had been rescued.

Streep, 33 years old, served with the United States army overseas and also in Syria with the American Committee for Relief in the Near East. He was appointed a Vice-Consul of Casper, 1924.

Thiel, 29, a graduate of Georgetown University, entered the consular service in 1924. Hickok, 35, entered the consular service three years ago and was assigned to Teheran, Ontario, and to Beirut, Syria, before he went to Jerusalem.

15 THOUGHT DEAD, HEAVY DAMAGE IN RIO GRANDE FLOOD

Victims Loss Lives When International Railway Bridge Collapses at Laredo, Tex.

By the Associated Press.

BROWNVILLE, Tex., Sept. 5.—With 15 lives believed to have been lost and unprecedented damage done, the Rio Grande flood crest moved down today to the gardening and citrus orchard district of the lower valley.

At Laredo the number of dead was still uncertain. Four men of a group estimated from 15 to 20 were rescued after two spans of the International Railway bridge collapsed beneath them as they stood watching the flood. One made his way through the flood to Nuevo Laredo across the river. The other three were saved after clinging for 18 hours to drifted logs.

The lower part of the Rio Grande Valley is much broader than at Laredo. Away from the Rio Grande, the land rises in a series of flat river terraces, broken by arroyos and giant floodways, as well as by irrigation canals. An intricate system of levees protects some of the lower sections.

Customs records at Hidalgo were moved from the office at the bridge to safer quarters. Guards were posted at several international bridges.

New Zealand Trade Balance. By the Associated Press. WELLINGTON, N. Z., Sept. 6.—The New Zealand Government today reported a favorable trade balance for the last export year of $12,482,000 (about $45,000,000), the largest since 1923. Exports were valued at $35,546,000, a decline of $1,392,000 from the previous year, while imports fell in value by $1,310,000 to $23,064,000.

Heavy Damage at Nuevo Laredo. Great damage was done in Nuevo Laredo, many blocks being covered with water while the flood was at its height. Damage to highways, railroads, bridges, livestock and farming land on both sides of the river could not be estimated.

It was predicted the crest of the flood would reach Rio Grande City today. The town, on the river, is about midway between Laredo and Brownsville. Lowlands near the river about Santa Maria, San Juan, and Los Ebanos were already under water. Yesterday the river reached a stage of 47 feet near Zapata, the highest mark since the end of the Civil War. Zapata perches on a hill above reach of the flood, but damage in the surrounding country was believed to have been heavy.

Heavy Rains on San Juan River. Torrential rains fell yesterday on the San Juan River valley in Mexico. The water empties into the Rio Grande near Rio Grande City. It was expected to intensify the flood. United States troops stationed at Fort Ringgold near Rio Grande City abandoned the post. Lieutenant-Colonel Robert H. Rogers held his command of 200 cavalry men ready to lead rescue and relief work. Firemen and emergency

Five Hours of Marching. For five hours, from 5:30 to 10:30 a. m., the veterans poured in seemingly endless columns into Templehof. There they heard Franz Seidte plead for patriotism, unity and love of their fellow men and saw Theodore Duestenberg dedicate hundreds of flags to new units. Seidte and Duestenberg are co-leaders of the Steel Helmet organization.

The tramp of marching feet resounded for six hours afterwards as the battalions passed in review before the Chancellor, who was accompanied by General Kurt von Schleicher, Defense Minister, Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, Minister of Interior, and other Cabinet members, wearing the uniform of Generals of the army. Several of the Hohenzollern princes hovered in the background.

Declaring that "the old German army is no more, but its spirit still lives," Seidte and Duestenberg swore the Steelhelmets to a solemn oath of allegiance to the old imperial colors, the black, white and red.

Widow, 71, Hit by Machine Which Falls to Stop. Mrs. Nellie Cather, 71, a widow, 5731 Maffett avenue, suffered fractures of the right arm and left leg when struck at yesterday afternoon by an automobile, the driver of which did not stop.

ST. LOUISAN LOSES LIFE SWIMMING IN BIG RIVER

Frank Stapp, 35, Apparently Seized With Cramp Near Byrnesville.

Frank Stapp, 35 years old, 1000 (near) Allen avenue, was drowned yesterday in the Big River near Byrnesville, Jefferson County, where he had gone with several friends on a fishing trip over Labor day.

Stapp had swum about 50 feet out from a beach at 7:30 a. m. and was splashing and swimming not far from shore when he cried, "Oh," as if seized with a cramp, and sank. Several of his companions on shore heard his cry and saw him go down but were unable to reach him in time.

The body was recovered seven hours later in a hole 12 feet deep by Albert Mackerman Jr., 4307 Clay avenue. A coroner's verdict of accidental drowning was returned.

Stapp, a chauffeur, employed by the Joseph A. Mrazek Moving and Storage Co., is survived by his widow, Mrs. Alberta Stapp, a 15-year-old daughter, Irma, and his mother, Mrs. Lena Stapp.

GEORGIA G. O. P. NOMINEE DRY

J. W. Arnold, Seeking Senatorship, for Soldiers' Bonus.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 5.—Rejection of the prohibition amendment and payment of the soldiers' bonus were advocated by James W. Arnold, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, opening his party's campaign in Georgia here today. Regarding prohibition, he said:

"They tell you to let the State control the liquor traffic, but I tell you that, if you repeal the eighth amendment and permit the states to be wet or dry, the borders of every state will have to be patrolled by an army of prohibition men to keep the liquor traffic from flowing from one state to another. I am unqualifiedly against repeal of the eighth amendment."

Arnold is opposing Senator Walter F. George, who is without opposition for renomination in the Democratic primary Sept. 14.

ALLEGED LETTERS OF THOMASSON TO BE READ TO JURY

One Tells of Being Seized on Street by His Wife and Taken to Chicago in Automobile.

"FORCED TO SIGN AN AGREEMENT"

Cousin Says Documents to Be Used in Sanity Hearing Were Written by Realty Owner

A dozen or more letters and compositions, alleged to have been written by Hugh W. Thomasson, wealthy 73-year-old real estate owner, have been introduced in evidence by counsel for Miss Edna Townsend, a distant cousin who is suing to have a guardian appointed for him, and will be read to the jury after the trial is resumed tomorrow in Circuit Judge Hoffmeister's court.

One of the letters is Thomasson's own version of the events when he took an automobile ride to Chicago with his wife, the former Grace Caroline Mahood, who is 44 years his junior. In asking for the guardian, Miss Townsend has alleged that Thomasson kidnapped him on this occasion and at present is holding him against his will.

Letter Describes Trip. Miss Townsend asked appointment of the guardian on the ground that her cousin is incompetent. The application is being opposed by attorneys for Thomasson. Extracts from the letters, which were introduced to show incompetence, follow:

"Aug. 13, 1930, as I was walking along Maryland avenue, I saw Grace C. (Mrs. Thomasson) in her car and she said get in, and I said no, and walked on. She got out and caught me from my back with both arms around me and forced me to get in her car and drove it a short distance. A man friend got in her car and said, 'Will take another trip,' and drove the car into the city about 5 p. m. Then said this is Chicago and insisted we register at a hotel. . . . I could not write to any one and I was about to get away one or the other of them would be coming after me. As we were leaving hotel, Grace said get in car and don't get off any of that rough stuff."

"I said where are you taking me now and they said to Milwaukee. A few miles out on a prairie road, where there was not anyone else present, I was shown a prepared agreement and threatened if I refused to sign I would not see St. Louis, Mo., for two years and be the road to California. As I was exhausted physically and mentally and feared they might do me some harm, so, after protesting vigorously, I was at last prevailed on to sign. I was to pay her $1000 a month and buy her a $5000 Pierce-Arrow car and $15,000 house, and she insisted I do it, and she said I know it is in your heart if you ever get back to St. Louis to see Rogers (Steve C. Rogers, his former attorney) and arrange to have the marriage and the agreement annulled."

Discusses Kidnaping. "When you are in trouble with a woman there is a sweet way to her and they or any other kidnaper will sneak in your room or any where and take you unawares and take away from you all the money and force you to marry her, compel you to sign a big contract and say many hard things about you. If you sue for annulment she sues for divorce and will swear to a pack of lies for her attorney and lawyers' fees; it would trick them if you were ever to get in safe and drop dead. They only fear a detective on their trail—a mole hill will remove a mountain but not do much for you."

"All flesh shall wither and return to dust. . . . Come and hear our great speaker—he is a noted man. What have you done, Sunday fishing—it will be easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle and only a pin can pass through the narrow gate."

An extract from another letter contains this reference to the marriage: "I will need another room, a car and a wedding ring to make a lady like other ladies," and I said I will not let you have them. I do not intend to let marriage stand, and she said, 'try me out for about 10 days,' and I refused to do so. I called my attorney and he said: 'Put her satchels in the hall.'"

NEW ILLINOIS MINERS' BODY ANSWERS LEWIS

Denies Theirs Is "Dual Organization"—Trying to Negotiate Contracts.

By the Associated Press. GILLESPIE, Ill., Sept. 5.—Adoption of a constitution and contract blanks for temporary work to present to operators, today equipped the "Progressive Miners of America" for initiating their campaign in Illinois, pending negotiations for a new wage scale.

President Claude Pearce said the constitution was drafted to enable unified work for control of Illinois first, and then expansion nationally and internationally. The temporary contracts, he said, would provide for immediate work under the old scale of $6.16.

The miners had a report that a mine operated by Joseph Taylor in Springfield would sign at the $6.16 scale, preparatory to mining coal tomorrow. Taylor employs between 200 and 300 men and sells his product almost entirely to Springfield consumers.

Answering the statement made Saturday by John L. Lewis, national president of the United Mine Workers of America, that the new movement lacked leadership and was doomed to an early death, officials of the Progressive Miners issued this statement:

"The new miners' organization is a middle-of-the-road union. It will not be bound to the vicious policies and stupid rules which have hampered the effectiveness of the rank and file of older trade unions in the United States and Canada and hindered them from manifesting their will and control of their own organization and allowed control to drift into the hands of an official clique, whose main activities are directed to keeping control of the organization in their own hands. Neither will it embark upon perilous social and economic experiments, which need considerable more trying in the fire of time before proving their worth."

WIFE KILLS SELF AFTER QUARRELING WITH HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Maurelian Bofinger, 25, Separated From Jobless Automobile Salesman Ends Life.

Mrs. Maurelian Bofinger, 25 years old, daughter of a physician at Valley Park, ended her life early yesterday by shooting herself through the head after a quarrel with her husband, William H. Bofinger Jr., former automobile salesman.

Mrs. Bofinger shot herself beside the summer cottage of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Calhoun, on Petty's Hill, two miles west of Valley Park, where she and her husband lived with the Calhouns until recently.

Mrs. Bofinger, a former student at Washington University and the University of Missouri, was driven to the summer cottage Saturday night by her father, Dr. Frank P. Knabb. She had been living with her parents since they returned from a vacation in California recently.

During the evening Mrs. Bofinger quarreled with her husband about the fact that he was out of employment and he told her, others in the course of the evening, that he was planning to drive to New York with his father, with whom the younger Bofingers had lived at 416 Alta Plaza court, University City, for most of their two and a half years of married life.

Mrs. Bofinger, according to others spending the week-end at the cottage, apparently became reconciled in the course of the evening, and at midnight, went to sleep, fully clothed, on a divan in the center room of the cottage. The others retired about 2:30.

Mrs. Bofinger rose about 5, went outside to the automobile of Emmett Funsteh, 6227 University drive, an Army reserve officer, and took from the car an automatic pistol. Funsteh told deputy sheriffs she knew the weapon was there because she, Funsteh and several others had used it for target practice July 4.

She was seen by Mrs. William E. Wilson, wife of a farmer to lean forward with her right arm raised, a moment later Mrs. Wilson heard the sound of a shot and Mrs. Bofinger fell. Mrs. Bofinger lived about 30 minutes. Her father was present when she died.

County officers were told Mrs. Bofinger was nervous and subject to spells of despondency. About a year ago, they were told, she slashed her wrists with a razor.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Bofinger will be held at the Bop undertaking establishment at Kirkwood tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., with burial in Oak Hill cemetery.

SON IDENTIFIES FATHER'S BODY

Miner Found Dead With Poison Vial Nearby.

A man found dead Saturday in a lot at the foot of Rutgers street, with an empty bottle that had contained poison nearby, was identified today as Michael Mydrock, 42 years old, a coal miner, who had been missing since Friday.

Identification was made by Mydrock's 16-year-old son, Henry, of East St. Louis, and John Chucholick, 218 Barry street, at whose home the elder Mydrock had been living. Chucholick said that Mydrock, dependent over poor health, had threatened to kill himself.

County officers were told Mrs. Bofinger was nervous and subject to spells of despondency. About a year ago, they were told, she slashed her wrists with a razor.

FOUND DEAD IN BRINE CHAMBER OF RAILWAY REFRIGERATOR CAR

Harry Lanferschick, 49, Apparently Fell in When Attempting to Fill Basket With Ice.

The body of Harry Lanferschick, 49 years old, 3911 North Wharf, was found in the brine chamber of a refrigerator car at the Krey Packing Co., 2106 Bremen avenue, yesterday afternoon. INQUIRY IS STARTED IN DEATH OF MAN IN PEKIN, ILL., JAIL

Prisoner Found Hanged in Cell Did Not Die of Strangulation, Two Doctors Declare.

By the Associated Press. PEKIN, Ill., Sept. 5.—The report of a pathologist was awaited today as Tazewell County authorities continued their investigation into the death of Martin Virant, 35-year-old East Peoria coal miner, who was found hanged in a cell in the county jail.

Virant, held as a witness in a slaying, was found dead shortly after he had testified Thursday at a coroner's inquest that he had been beaten in the jail in an effort to make him confess complicity in the killing of Louis Nelan a week ago yesterday.

Since Virant's body was found hanging in his cell two local doctors have stated their examination disclosed no evidence of strangulation and that his body was covered with bruises.

Coroner A. E. Allen said that if evidence tended to bear out preliminary indications four and possibly five men might be arrested in the case.

The coroner yesterday halted Virant's funeral at the cemetery in order that the examination by a Chicago pathologist could be made.

The Sheriff, James Crosby, and four of his deputies have been ordered to appear at the inquest into Virant's death.

Searching for Slayer of U. S. Girl in Alps

Police Think Vagrant Killed Cleveland Tourist in Switzerland.

By the Associated Press. BRIG, Switzerland, Sept. 5.—Police still searched today for an unidentified vagrant suspected of killing Miss Jerane Ibershoff, Cleveland, O., a 21-year-old Smith College student, whose body was found at the foot of Zermatt Mountain in the Alps last week. Her sister, Helen Ibershoff, is waiting at Viege for her mother, who is on the way from the United States. The body is to be cremated.

Thursday morning Miss Jerane started by bicycle from Zermatt to Viege. Her sister delayed to get a bicycle which was being repaired and they were to meet that afternoon in Viege.

All Thursday night Miss Helen searched for her sister, traveling the route on foot. She said she must have passed the scene of the killing. At dawn gendarmes on the road told her that the body had been discovered. She was taken to the spot and fainting.

The young woman apparently was killed with a stone.

Frank Stapp, 35 years old, 1000 (near) Allen avenue, was drowned yesterday in the Big River near Byrnesville, Jefferson County, where he had gone with several friends on a fishing trip over Labor day.

Stapp had swum about 50 feet out from a beach at 7:30 a. m. and was splashing and swimming not far from shore when he cried, "Oh," as if seized with a cramp, and sank. Several of his companions on shore heard his cry and saw him go down but were unable to reach him in time.

The body was recovered seven hours later in a hole 12 feet deep by Albert Mackerman Jr., 4307 Clay avenue. A coroner's verdict of accidental drowning was returned.

GEORGIA G. O. P. NOMINEE DRY

J. W. Arnold, Seeking Senatorship, for Soldiers' Bonus.

REIDSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 5.—Rejection of the prohibition amendment and payment of the soldiers' bonus were advocated by James W. Arnold, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, opening his party's campaign in Georgia here today. Regarding prohibition, he said:

"They tell you to let the State control the liquor traffic, but I tell you that, if you repeal the eighth amendment and permit the states to be wet or dry, the borders of every state will have to be patrolled by an army of prohibition men to keep the liquor traffic from flowing from one state to another. I am unqualifiedly against repeal of the eighth amendment."

Arnold is opposing Senator Walter F. George, who is without opposition for renomination in the Democratic primary Sept. 14.

ALLEGED LETTERS OF THOMASSON TO BE READ TO JURY

One Tells of Being Seized on Street by His Wife and Taken to Chicago in Automobile.

"FORCED TO SIGN AN AGREEMENT"

Cousin Says Documents to Be Used in Sanity Hearing Were Written by Realty Owner

A dozen or more letters and compositions, alleged to have been written by Hugh W. Thomasson, wealthy 73-year-old real estate owner, have been introduced in evidence by counsel for Miss Edna Townsend, a distant cousin who is suing to have a guardian appointed for him, and will be read to the jury after the trial is resumed tomorrow in Circuit Judge Hoffmeister's court.

One of the letters is Thomasson's own version of the events when he took an automobile ride to Chicago with his wife, the former Grace Caroline Mahood, who is 44 years his junior. In asking for the guardian, Miss Townsend has alleged that Thomasson kidnapped him on this occasion and at present is holding him against his will.

Letter Describes Trip. Miss Townsend asked appointment of the guardian on the ground that her cousin is incompetent. The application is being opposed by attorneys for Thomasson. Extracts from the letters, which were introduced to show incompetence, follow:

"Aug. 13, 1930, as I was walking along Maryland avenue, I saw Grace C. (Mrs. Thomasson) in her car and she said get in, and I said no, and walked on. She got out and caught me from my back with both arms around me and forced me to get in her car and drove it a short distance. A man friend got in her car and said, 'Will take another trip,' and drove the car into the city about 5 p. m. Then said this is Chicago and insisted we register at a hotel. . . . I could not write to any one and I was about to get away one or the other of them would be coming after me. As we were leaving hotel, Grace said get in car and don't get off any of that rough stuff."

"I said where are you taking me now and they said to Milwaukee. A few miles out on a prairie road, where there was not anyone else present, I was shown a prepared agreement and threatened if I refused to sign I would not see St. Louis, Mo., for two years and be the road to California. As I was exhausted physically and mentally and feared they might do me some harm, so, after protesting vigorously, I was at last prevailed on to sign. I was to pay her $1000 a month and buy her a $5000 Pierce-Arrow car and $15,000 house, and she insisted I do it, and she said I know it is in your heart if you ever get back to St. Louis to see Rogers (Steve C. Rogers, his former attorney) and arrange to have the marriage and the agreement annulled."

Discusses Kidnaping. "When you are in trouble with a woman there is a sweet way to her and they or any other kidnaper will sneak in your room or any where and take you unawares and take away from you all the money and force you to marry her, compel you to sign a big contract and say many hard things about you. If you sue for annulment she sues for divorce and will swear to a pack of lies for her attorney and lawyers' fees; it would trick them if you were ever to get in safe and drop dead. They only fear a detective on their trail—a mole hill will remove a mountain but not do much for you."

"All flesh shall wither and return to dust. . . . Come and hear our great speaker—he is a noted man. What have you done, Sunday fishing—it will be easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle and only a pin can pass through the narrow gate."

An extract from another letter contains this reference to the marriage: "I will need another room, a car and a wedding ring to make a lady like other ladies," and I said I will not let you have them. I do not intend to let marriage stand, and she said, 'try me out for about 10 days,' and I refused to do so. I called my attorney and he said: 'Put her satchels in the hall.'"

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Needed: Americanism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THE most pressing immediate need in America is Americanism—the spirit of our forefathers who had the intellectual fortitude to accept things as they found them—and then kept on keeping on.

Perhaps it would be a good idea for all of us to read some of the early history of this country and to learn something about the fiber of the men and women who paid the price to give us, in this generation, the comparative comforts and luxuries we are all now enjoying. We cannot escape a prideful swelling of the chest when mention is made of the sacrifices and accomplishments of the real pioneer Americans. But what will the historians of this generation have to report? The archives will be drab and uninteresting unless we pull ourselves together and show something to justify our right to call ourselves Americans.

We shall have to quit looking for "mana from the heavens." We shall have to bestir ourselves and realize that this is a matter of individual responsibility. We can't expect any government to pull us out of the hole we dug ourselves. Our situation is not at all desperate. All we have to do is to open our eyes and quit howling and dig in. Those of us who are working can pay our debts as we should and use the rest for normal purchases and sane investment. Thrift means sensible spending. Hoarding is traitorous at this time.

Eighty per cent of the population is earning money and, if this 80 per cent will pay their debts promptly and quit their foolish fears, the other 20 per cent will also be earning. But this won't happen until we quit croaking and start thinking constructively. We, as individuals, must realize our individual responsibility, and when we do that we will find the remedy within ourselves.

EDWARD O'CONNOR.

A View of the Rising Market.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
IN your editorial, "Rising Prices and Unemployment," you have again put forth a number of pertinent facts. You have a more charitable view of the juggling going on in the stock market than has the writer. To him it appears only as another trick of the shameless financial brigades, and the equally shameless high-ups of the G. O. P., from the White House down, to throw a new supply of dust into the eyes of those deluded fools who were just beginning to get a bit of the last delusion and quit their peepers, and to give some favored bunch a last opportunity, before election, to unload some worthless printed junk.

Would Limit Size of Farms.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
CONCENTRATED wealth, or any system which permits it, is detrimental to the national welfare. It may also be asserted with equal emphasis that farms of large acreage, with the use of modern farm machinery, are detrimental to agriculture, because of the displacement of production. The solution is to reduce—by law—the farm acreage to a unit permitting industrial equality. This can be accomplished by not permitting the average farm to contain more than 200 acres. The classification of farms into general farms, estate farms, stock farms and determinate farms would be injecting business principles into an uncontrolled past and present situation, which in itself would not destroy man's inalienable right to own as many farms as he wanted to, or as much acreage as he cared to own, but each farm would be, industrially speaking, on a par with its neighbor, and a complete unit within itself.

Each farm of 200 acres or less, and in production, would have a farmer upon it who would be registered with his county agent. A state agency, working in cooperation with the Government at Washington, would have a list of all state farms and farmers, and keep track of their activity and classification. The Government could post a steady price a year in advance of production, the previous year's production determining a crop's value, at the same time keeping in force a just wage scale for maintaining the farm family.

It is not my intention to discuss the legal questions involved in such a radical change in agriculture, but it is my desire to suggest such a just method for procedure in the hope that American farm life can be preserved upon a basis of equality for all and at the same time prosper upon the principle involved. I sincerely hope the public can realize how important it is that agriculture, with its 60,000,000 people involved, be placed upon a sound financial foundation.

Bloomfield, Mo. PAUL C. HILL.

A Pair of Crackers.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
PRESIDENT HOOVER very emphatically declares that he is a dry wet, while Mr. Curtis just as emphatically insists he is plumb dry; but in their duel, both caution the country not to designate either as wet or dry.

This seems to bear out the first impression that the Republican party had nominated a pair of crackers, but only after they had willingly submitted themselves to being shipped.

JAMES P. WHITEHEAD, Portland, Mo.

ROOSEVELT AND TAMMANY.

Speculation is naturally busy with the probable effect of the Walker affair on the presidential election. If Walker carries out his intention, implied in his resignation statement, to run for Mayor of New York in November, it is almost certain that the State's electoral vote will be delivered to Mr. Hoover. Without the normally big Democratic vote of the city, a Democrat's chances for carrying the State are dim, not to say nil. To poll the city's normal Democratic vote is out of the question unless Tammany is energetically on the job. If Walker is a candidate for Mayor it means, of course, that he has Tammany's approval, and that would logically mean that Tammany's special order of business on Nov. 8 would be the election of Walker. The harpooning of Roosevelt would be a necessary corollary.

That Walker will seek vindication by "changing the venue," as he grandiloquently expresses it, "to the supreme authority" of the people, is, in our opinion, debatable. Such purpose is a grand theme for a campaign, but Tammany is an institution that deals with political realities. It is no knight-errant complex. It is not influenced, in its political judgment, by sentimentality. It is fully aware that the clamor that was Jimmie Walker is gone. It is gone, as has the hectic period of easy money which he so dazlingly ornamented. Electing Walker again would be quite a contrast. It would be the line of most resistance. That is not the philosophy of Tammany, or of any other political machine. So it is a fair inference that between now and November circumstances will intervene to make Walker reconsider his determination to appeal his case to the highest tribunal.

But suppose Tammany chooses to make Walker's vindication an issue and bolts Roosevelt! It will not be the first time a Democratic candidate for President has experienced Tammany's treachery. Indeed, Tammany's aversion is the usual portion of a Democratic presidential candidate. The Democrats have elected two Presidents in the last 76 years—Cleveland and Wilson—neither of whom enjoyed Tammany's favor. And what of the defeated Democratic presidential candidates? The only man so honored in recent history to command Tammany's enthusiasm was Alton B. Parker, who really made no showing at all. Bryan was an outlander, and in the case of Cox, and later that of Davis, Tammany's attitude could not have influenced the outcome.

But what did Tammany do to one of its own, in 1928? It may have cheered when the bands played "The Sidewalks of New York," but that just about covers its contribution to Alfred E. Smith. New York City failed Smith; failed by hundreds of thousands to give him the vote he had polled when running for Governor, and that political item is chargeable to Tammany.

The truth is that the office of Mayor of New York is much more important in Tammany's reckoning than is the presidency of the United States. Moreover, what Gov. Roosevelt may lose in New York City, in consequence of Jimmie Walker's departure, will, we feel sure, be more than offset by his gains elsewhere.

FATHER DEMPSEY'S VACATION.

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Timothy Dempsey of St. Patrick's Church, more frequently called simply "Father Tim," has departed for his native Ireland on one of the few vacations of his pastoral career, almost 38 years, but his good works will go on. His activities in behalf of the poor have been numerous for all those years, but his greatest work came when depression severed thousands of men from their livelihoods. Father Dempsey has fed great hosts of these victims of the times at his basement kitchen restaurant, with the serving of 6000 meals a frequent daily occurrence. It has been charity of the simplest and most direct type, without strings or red tape. An appetite for plain, nourishing food is the only credential required, and "seconds" are to be had as long as the supply holds out. And the supply has been bountiful, provided from the generosity of more fortunate citizens. It has been an amazing example of what good will can achieve in filling an urgent need.

Father Dempsey's health has not been of the best for some months past, and only for this reason has he consented to leave his work, first assuring himself that it would go energetically forward in his absence. May he return refreshed and strengthened, to continue adding his contributions to humanity's budget of kindly deeds.

LABOR AND THE MACHINE.

The year that Pierre L'Esclapart brought his rude flatboat to rest near what is now the foot of Market street, James Hargreaves, a British mill weaver, produced a device he called the spinning jenny, out of respect for his wife, who was so named. The spinning jenny made it possible for his operator to spin eight threads. Therefore, one person had been able to produce but one thread.

It is the consequences of that invention in England the year St. Louis was founded that confront and confound the world today. In the relatively short period of time that has elapsed, mechanical power has taken the place of human muscle. A hundred years ago, a highly skilled workman laboring diligently through a long day might produce as many as 20 needles. Now, a machine with the help of a girl of little or no skill can turn out in a shorter working day 500,000 needles.

The industrial revolution, for the transformation was, and still is, a revolution more profound and reaching than any other in history, has established the characteristics of the present economic and social order. What this revolution and its concomitant, the machine, have done to the status of labor is the thought for this Labor day.

Once economists wrote of the economic man and in minute detail described his place and work in the world. Those theorists apparently did not know it, but the engaging creature of their imagination passed from the scene with the first clicks of the spinning machines. Machinery brought specialization and specialization has so reduced the bargaining power of labor that many observers of the present economic society think of workers as so many economic slaves. As work is subdivided, the less the worker needs to know. The less he needs to know, the more easily he may be replaced. The more easily he may be replaced, the less is his bargaining power. Thus, the machine not only supplants labor, it materially lessens the economic strength of that labor which it requires.

Where are we going? No one knows our destination, but when we look back we can see the direction in which we are traveling. It is a direction we must change. The machine has brought benefits which cannot be measured. As an agency for the enrichment of the few it possesses destructive powers that cannot be endured. An equitable distribution of the machine's benefits is a challenging task of our civilization.

HORATIO LEARNS ANOTHER LESSON.

Horatio has again discovered there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in his philosophy. Horatio in this case being the 56 candidates for the Democratic City Committee who supported Dearmont. Since the law requires a $100 filing fee, they obediently went down in their pockets for the money and it was placed in the committee's account. But it didn't stay there long, and the supposition is that it was used to finance the 56 Wilson candidates for the same job.

Assuming that to be true, and if it isn't true the rules of circumstantial evidence may as well be repealed, a clever political trick, done entirely without mirrors, has been revealed. It consists in running for office at the expense of the person one is trying to beat. It is as though the St. Louis Browns, having loaded the bases against the New York Yankees, should call Babe Ruth in from the outfield to bat for them. The difference is that the Yankees would strenuously and successfully object to such a procedure, while in this instance the Dearmont candidates must take it on the chin without hitting back.

And speaking of treasurers, James J. Fitzsimmons is undoubtedly the most resourceful one since Ogden Mills. He was supposed to make a report as to the committee's finances, and, in fact, did make one, but apparently no one knows what was in it or where it is. But then Mr. Fitzsimmons could hardly be expected to embroider in verse or hemstitch in prose a tale that would make any one of the 56 feel a whit better. So, it seems, he mumbled a few figures as fast and as incoherently as possible and let it go at that.

A word, too, for Dewey S. Godfrey, the new chairman, who, like his distinguished namesake, has taken Joe Mestres' Manila with hardly a struggle. Dewey admits he paid no filing fee, the committee having done that little thing for him, and he "presumes" all other Wilson candidates were similarly honored. Well, that gives him a flying start in his new duties of making St. Louis safe for the spirit of Thomas Jefferson.

Virtually broke, the committee nevertheless faces the fall campaign without a tremor. Since when do Democrats need money for a fight? Since never. Their fighting is instinctive and spontaneous, beginning with themselves and sometimes involving a stray Republican.

FIRST AID TO NEW NEIGHBORS.

Whatever may be said of the Japanese, they certainly make good neighbors to new residents in their district. On being apprised that a new government, known as Manchukuo, had moved in across the Japan Sea, the Japanese speedily proceeded to be helpful. They furnished a head for the new household, which unfortunately lacked one, and sent over some of their own loyal sons to help him solve the little family problems that might arise. Plenty of good advice was given, also, on what to do if the Chinese family next door got tough and asked the newcomers to move. The place needed a bit of cleaning up, so a whole corps of expert housecleaners was dispatched, with utensils appropriate for the job.

Her new friends being fairly well settled, Japan's next happy thought was to introduce them to society. But so far, everyone has had a previous engagement when the sponsor called with a suggestion for a meeting of the new arrival with some of the older families. There will be some long, lonely evenings for the Manchukuan unless the helpful Japanese can figure out a way of crashing the gate in their behalf.

FIXING THE BLAME.

Henry Allen of Kansas, Mr. Hoover's publicity director, made his first speech of the campaign to the dirt farmers of Newport, R. I., the other night and was in great form. If he doesn't lose his stride, his fifth or sixth speech will place 90 per cent of the responsibility for the depression at Gov. Roosevelt's doorstep and will mail the remaining 10 per cent to Jack Garner's Texas address.

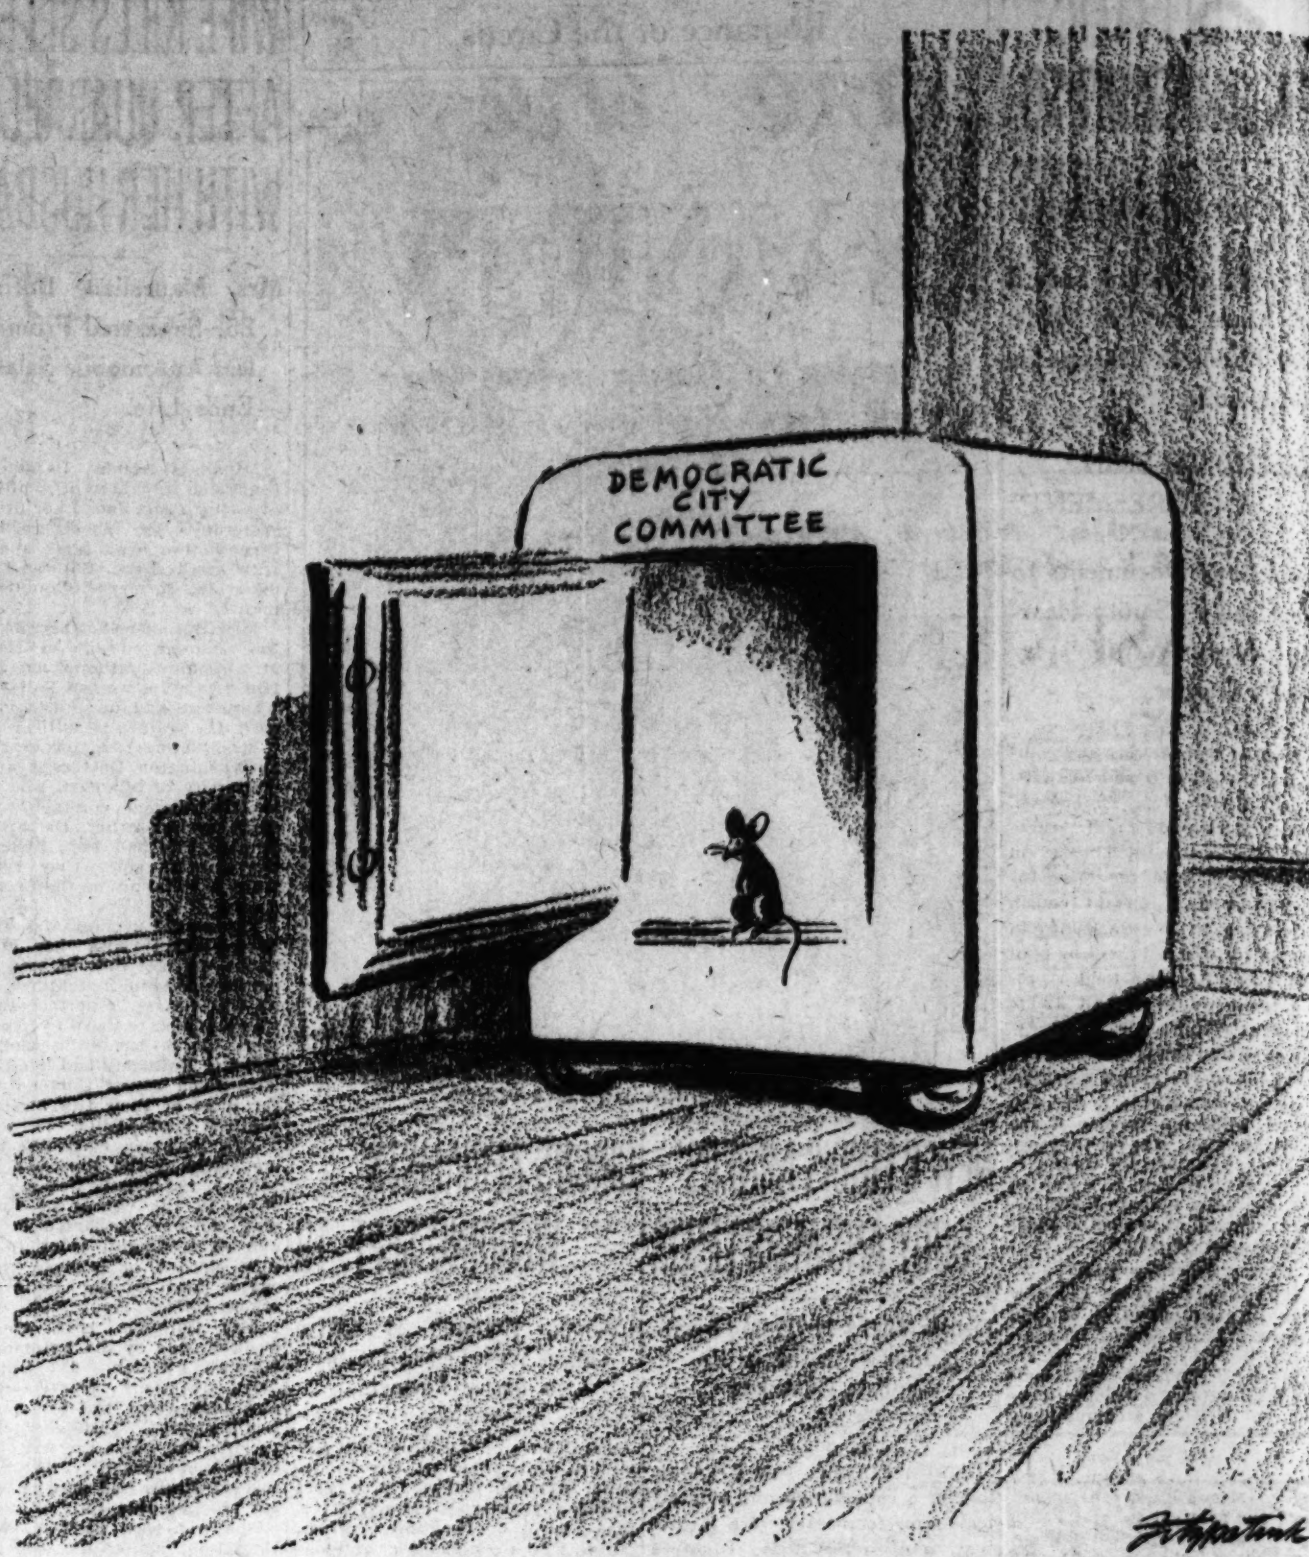

FREE SPEECH IN THE POSTOFFICE.

"This is a free country and every man has a perfect right to speak his own mind," said Postmaster-General Brown in announcing the reinstatement of a postal clerk dismissed because he had advocated cash payment of the veterans' bonus. This Jeffersonian utterance has a somewhat different ring from the address of Mr. Brown's assistant, Mr. Glover, to a group of postmasters at Springfield, Mo., last spring, when he announced that all who did not wish to campaign for Mr. Hoover would be expected to resign. That ultimatum followed the tenor of an address by Mr. Brown himself last fall at Omaha. Apparently the Postoffice Department is in process of being educated in Americanism.

There is a wide difference between Federal employees' doing political work and expressing their political opinions. On the one hand is a machine built by the spoils of office, on the other an exercise of the freedom that is an American fundamental. A man should not have to become a stump speaker and party hack because he enters Government service for his livelihood; neither should he don blenders and a gag. It was due to Mr. Hoover's intervention that the postal clerk in this case was reinstated. This does Mr. Hoover credit, and we hope the precedent will insure free speech and the rights of opinion to Government workers.

ANOTHER EXPERIMENT, PROFESSOR.

Thanks to the Hermann Frasch Foundation, which has granted the University of Missouri College of Agriculture $40,000 for such studies, we now know the many requirements of the elephant. Dr. Samuel Brody conducted the experiments the other day when a circus visited Columbia. A "spirometer" was used to record the amount and rate of oxygen consumed, and metabolism measurements were taken at intervals. As a result, Dr. Brody can now reel off figures on what it takes to keep up lumbering pachyderms as well as mice, rats, guinea pigs, pigeons, rabbits, chickens, goats, sheep, beef and dairy cattle and horses. So far so good. But after all, who, two months before a national election, is interested in comparing the requirements of elephants and mice, or rabbits and goats? Let Dr. Brody conduct another experiment and let him do it at once. What the country wants to know is how the elephant's ability to consume the people's substance stacks up with that of the donkey.

TREASURER'S REPORT.

The Criminal's Advantage in Court

Our legal code considerably favors law-breaker over the authorities; this explains, though it does not excuse, cases of police brutality; technicalities, curbs on prosecutor and limited power of Judge create refuge for criminal; reform along British lines urged to improve our system, which is now 70 to 95 per cent inefficient.

James M. Hepburn, Managing Director, Baltimore Criminal Justice Commission, in the Baltimore Evening Sun.

RECENT charges of police brutality have again focused public attention on police methods. Undoubtedly all thinking persons deplore such acts, for such conduct on the part of public officials is one of the greatest brooders of hatred and disloyalty toward law and even government itself. In crying out against "our lawless police" at such times, comparisons are not infrequently made with England and the manner in which her police function.

In its battle with the criminal, our police are playing a game in which many of the rules unnecessarily favor the criminal.

"But," asks Mr. Average Citizen, "doesn't England play the game under the same general rules? Didn't we borrow our system from the English?" The real answer is that more than 80 years ago England modernized her criminal procedure, while we still cling to an antiquated and even silly set of rules long after the reason for many of them has ceased to exist.

There are two theories on which codes of criminal procedure are founded: first, that the protection of the citizen against possible injustice and oppression by the state is the primary object; second, that a code of criminal procedure should provide such a judicial investigation of a charge of crime as will lead to prompt and definite decision as to guilt and punishment or treatment in order that society may be protected against its enemies.

England originally held to the first theory, and we still do. When England subscribed to this view, nearly 300 offenses were punishable by death. Even children were hanged for the theft of a shilling. The humanity of the people finally cried out against such barbarity, which not only proved ineffective, but filled the criminal law with a mass of technicalities devised by judges and lawyers to protect minor offenders from extreme and unusual punishment. In other words, there was a conspiracy of mercy on the part of courts and attorneys, carried out through the medium of hyper-technical construction of indictments as well as all matters of law and procedure.

But we in America did not even stop there. Bent on further protecting the citizen against injustice and oppression by the state, we impaired the administration of justice by reducing the authority of the trial judge and allowing an unlimited right of appeal for technical review by the appellate court, with liberty on bond pending its decision. Indeed, in Maryland and in many other commonwealths, the State has no right of appeal whatever in criminal cases. Let us briefly consider some of the more important of these unnecessary advantages which the accused criminal has over the state. In the first place, the prosecution must be most specific regarding every detail of the proof it expects to offer. The name of every witness must be known to the defense. The accused, on the other hand, does not have to give any idea of his line of defense. The manufactured alibi is one of the main avenues of escape for guilty criminals. Moreover, the amount of perjury that is annually committed in this connection forms a most considerable item in the mass of unpunished crimes.

The fabricated alibi would be rendered most difficult if the defense were required to give the prosecution such notice as would enable it to confirm or refute the assertion of the accused. Indeed, Scotland goes so far as not to permit the defendant to prove an alibi unless he pleads it as a special defense.

While there are many who are still unwilling to force the accused to incriminate himself, there is nevertheless a very general agreement that the prosecution should have the right to comment on the defendant's failure to take the stand in his own behalf. The jury in Maryland must draw no inference from such failure. How utterly impossible that is, for in life we invariably draw inferences from silence where one would naturally speak.

Then, again, there is the unfair apportionment of peremptory challenges of jurors as between state and defense. In many states, too, defendants jointly indicated for any felony may demand and secure a separate trial. The matter should be left to the discretion of the court. Many jurists also think that less than a unanimous vote of the jury should be sufficient for conviction, at least in other than capital cases. The prosecution and defense should likewise be on a parity with reference to the introduction of evidence, taken on deposition, of a witness who is dead, sick, insane or absent from the jurisdiction at the time of trial.

There are but some of the advantages of the accused in criminal cases. The matter was aptly put some time ago by former Gov. Hadley of Missouri in the following words: "Stated in terms of percentages, the result is that our system of apprehending and prosecuting those guilty of criminal offenses is only from 5 per cent to 10 per cent efficient; considering those apprehended and indicted for major offenses, it is only from 25 per cent to 30 per cent efficient, and including those actually tried for major offenses, about 30 per cent efficient."

"Such figures stated in the abstract oftentimes mean little to the casual reader, but if he should stop to consider a similar result on the conduct of a business such as banking, transportation or manufacturing with percentage of efficiency from only 5 to 10 per cent, he could more clearly realize the seriousness of the problem that confronts society today, depending as it does for the protection of life and property upon a system of apprehending and prosecuting violators of the law which is from 80 to 95 per cent inefficient."

The police work hard to catch criminals and build up a case only to see it collapse as a result of some silly technicality, and then have to watch the criminal thumb his nose at them and become even bolder in his future operations. Add to all this the tricks of pettifoggery, shyster lawyers, the weird decisions of judges who can be reached by corrupt politicians, the verdicts of sentimental, mercenary jurors and the apathetic attitude of the American public, and one can understand even if he cannot estimate the occasional outbursts of police brutality.

Strikes and Wage Cuts

By Editorial Research Reports.

LABOR DAY, 1932, finds the country only slightly less tranquil, in so far as labor disputes are concerned, than last year. Throughout the year, wage cuts have been accepted in a large number of cases without resort to strikes of long duration. Such cuts generally have been effected by reductions in the cost of living, although the percentage of wage cuts during the first seven months of 1932 is greater than the percentage reduction in all items of living costs computed by the Department of Labor. The average of cuts is 10.3 per cent. The reduction from December, 1931, to June, 1932, in living costs 6.9 per cent.

In his acceptance address Aug. 11, President Hoover said: "For the first time in the history of depression, dividends, profits and the cost of living have been reduced before wage cuts have been suffered. We have been more free from industrial conflict through strikes and lockouts and all forms of social disorder than even in normal times."

The number of man-days lost in labor disputes was at the lowest point in recent history during 1930. The figure for that year is 2,730,358 as compared with 3,751,312 days lost in 1929, and 31,555,947 days lost in 1928. In 1931 the number of man-days lost was 6,330,132. During the first six months of 1932, the number of man-days lost in strikes was 3,983,482—an increase of 55 per cent over the same period of 1931.

The largest strike in recent months has been that of the Illinois coal miners in New York City, July, 1932, painters struck for a restoration of their previous wage scale, and 27,000 ladies' garment workers left work temporarily, but soon accepted a 10 per cent wage cut and compromised their demands for improvements in working conditions.

Under the act of March 3, 1931, all labor employed on Federal construction projects must be paid at the "prevailing wage" scale. Out of 104 cases handled by the Conciliation Service of the Department of Labor from July 2 to July 15, 42 were concerned with this question.

Little militancy has been displayed in the policies of the leaders of the stronger unions in their recent statements. In many cases, they have frankly recognized the claim of employers that wages must be cut and have submitted willingly to such cuts. In contrast to this policy, William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, Aug. 29 sent a telegram to officials of the Iowa Farmers' Holiday Association, endorsing the strike movement among farmers "in their effort to secure the cost of production of farm products."

"Labor is keenly interested," Green's message said, "in the experiment farmers are making in the use of their collective economic strength. We sincerely hope your strike movement will be successful."

EX-LORD OF SHANTUNG KILLED BY ASSASSINS

Chang Tsung-Chang Slain by Soldiers to Avenge Leader
He Had Executed.

By the Associated Press.
PEIPING, Sept. 4.—Gen. Chang Tsung-chang, former Governor of Shantung, was assassinated by three revengeful soldiers Saturday. He was shot as he boarded a Peiping express at Tsinanfu, according to messages from there.

The three assassins, arrested, confessed, saying they shot Chang to avenge Gen. Chang Chin-shen, a cavalry commander under the so-called "Christian" Gen. Feng Yu-shiang, who was executed at Chang's order about five years ago.

Chang, who resided at Peiping, was at Tsinanfu to worship at his ancestral tomb and was hurrying back to the bedside of his aged mother when he was slain.

His first came to attention during the Russo-Japanese War, when he fought with a band of guerrillas on the Russian side. Later he allied himself with Marshal Chang Tso-lin of Manchuria. In 1922 Chang organized a brigade of White Russians, with whose aid he ruled Shantung. He was said to have ruined thousands of property holders by excessive taxation before he was ousted by Gen. Chang Kai-shek's army.

Not long ago Chang was reported to have shot and fatally wounded Prince Hsien-tai, cousin of Henry Pu-yi, now nominal ruler of Manchukuo. Chang said the shooting was accidental.

Chang started life as a coolie on the docks of Vladivostok. He became bandit and then war lord.

SAYS FLOOD CONTROL PLAN ON MISSISSIPPI IS UNJUST

Association Calls Meeting of Residents of Backwater Areas to Work for Change.

By the Associated Press.
MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 4.—Officers of the Mississippi River Flood Control Association said today land owners, business men, engineers, Congressmen and officials of the tributary basins of Eastern Arkansas and Northwestern Mississippi would be called to meet at Helena, Ark., within the next two weeks.

The meeting, the officers said, will mark the beginning of a "persistent campaign" to force immediate relief from what they called the injustices of the present flood control system provided in the 1928 act.

W. H. Dick, president of the Flood Control Association, charged discrimination against the backwater areas, declaring that farmers in these rich basins were losing millions of dollars annually through destruction of their crops by floods.

"The building of the front line levees," Dick said, "has increased the depth, frequency and duration of backwater floods. People living in the backwater areas of Arkansas and Mississippi paid one-third of the cost of constructing the front line levees and all they have received is more flood water. They are worse off than when they started. Immediate relief is imperative."

DR. BUTLER DEPLORES PUBLIC EXPLOITATION

Says Concentration of Capital and Management is Invitation to Socialism.

By the Associated Press.
BOUTEAUMPTON, N. Y., Sept. 4.—President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University asserted yesterday that only by proper conduct and prevention of public exploitation can the balance between government and liberty be maintained.

"One cannot have his cake and eat it too," he said in an address at the Faneuil Art Museum here.

"If government is to be restricted to the sphere originally marked out for it by the framers of our Constitution," he continued, "then we must so conduct ourselves that there is no temptation for government to increase its area of jurisdiction."

If we do not, he added, "nothing is more certain" than that government will invade the sphere of liberty and compel public protection by law.

"The concentration of capital and of management which has been going on apace for generation past," he said, "is itself an invitation to Socialism."

Speaking of "the lamentable happenings of the past three years," he said:

"How far it will be necessary for government to step in and deal with the abuses of the situation which has developed is a matter to be determined very largely by the managers themselves of these great corporate undertakings."

"If they convince the public of their high-mindedness, their disinterestedness and their unwillingness to take private profit out of a public undertaking, they will be permitted to go their way in peace."

"Should they not be willing or able to do these things, then they must not be surprised if the heavy hand of government is reached out to grasp them."

For three years production of agriculture and industry has been piling up a material wealth for which there is no market, he asserted, because of destruction of purchasing and consuming power of the masses.

"If men by their own wits and their own volition cannot with reasonable promptness cure a condition such as that," he declared, "they must not be surprised if they find government stepping in to take the matter, however clumsily, into its own hands."

"Somehow we must get rid of poverty before we have a social and economic system of which we can be justly proud."

JAPANESE DIET APPROVES $39,600,000 RELIEF MEASURES

Third Special Session Adjourns After Aiding Farmers, Fishermen and Small Merchants.

By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, Sept. 4.—The third special session of the Japanese Diet this year ended last night after appropriation of about $39,600,000 had been made for the relief of farmers, fishermen and small merchants.

(Special sessions of the Japanese Parliament were called in March and June to vote funds for the Manchurian and Shanghai military campaigns. Meanwhile the tremendous decline in silk and rice prices has caused distress at home that has forced rural families in many instances to subsist on cattle feed and soy bean fertilizer. Peasant delegations of late have focused the Government's attention on the domestic situation, and the Diet session just ended was the answer.)

The session lasted four days overtime owing to the conflict between the majority Seiyukai party in the House and the Government. A major political crisis probably was averted when the House of Peers came to the support of the cabinet and enabled it to ride out the storm and achieve a compromise program. The situation was so serious several times, however, that the resignation of the cabinet or dissolution of Parliament appeared imminent. The Seiyukai party criticized the Government program as inadequate to alleviate appreciably the dangerous rural discontent and distress.

NEW ELECTION IN ECUADOR AS RESULT OF REBELLION
Voting Set for Oct. 30 and 31 in Decree by Provisional Government.

By the Associated Press.
QUITO, Ecuador, Sept. 4.—A presidential election in Ecuador was ordered for Oct. 30 and 31 in a decree promulgated today by the Provisional Government, set up after the recent rebellion.

By the Associated Press.
ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 4.—The War Department last night said it had been advised from Bahia Negra that Bolivian patrols fired on Fort Coronel Bogado on Aug. 23 and that a Bolivian airplane was sighted flying over Paraguayan territory in the Chaco Aug. 31. There were no details.

By the Associated Press.
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 4.—The Federal Government yesterday contracted for the printing of $68,000,000 notes of paper money, which is equivalent to $121,000,000 at the official rate of exchange.

The beginning of the ninth week of the fighting between the Rio de Janeiro Government and the Constitutionalist of Sao Paulo State found the Federals with a foothold on the important Mogyana Railroad. The drive in this section is the most serious facing the rebels, because the communications to the rich Ribera Preto section have been placed in difficulty.

JOB INSURANCE BILL FRAMED BY A. F. OF L.

Secretary Morrison in Speech Says Plan Will Be Given Congress.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—A Federal unemployment insurance bill is being prepared by the American Federation of Labor for introduction at the next session of Congress in December.

This was announced today by Frank Morrison, secretary of the federation, in the course of a Labor day radio address over the National Broadcasting System.

The Executive Council of the organization set forth the text of his speech as given out from federation headquarters, instructed President William Green in July to draw up such a bill. It must be approved by the council in October and by the federation at its November convention in Cincinnati.

The bill is to be "so drawn that it will safeguard members of organized labor from being compelled to work under non-union conditions and in violation of their contract with their union," he said. Morrison held that the tendency toward a shorter work day and a shorter work week is "irreversible." "Labor continues its struggle for the right to bargain collectively and select its own representatives in negotiating wage contracts," Morrison said.

"I venture the opinion that an old age pension system in this country is inevitable. Sentiment for this legislation will grow as the mechanization of industry is intensified and as scientific processes become more general, with the consequent enlargement of the number of unemployed."

"The same forces are driving industry to a five-day week and a shorter work day. The present business depression with 11,000,000 idle workmen is the best defense of our shorter work week demand."

"In the political field the American Federation of Labor is non-partisan. An active political campaign has been carried on for the purpose of electing our avowed friends and members of our unions to the Congress of the United States and to all other offices where the interests of labor can be saved."

JOHN L. LEWIS CONGRATULATES LABOR ON 'SELF-RESTRAINT'

Mine Workers' President Urges Union to "Continue Along Safe and Sane Pathway."

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a Labor day statement, congratulates "the members of labor's ranks upon their coolness and their adherence to the aims, the purposes and the principles of the labor movement which they have exercised throughout the past year."

"We marvel sometimes," he says, "at the splendid degree of self-restraint that has characterized the life of the workers during the past hectic year."

"Those who adhere so loyally to the fundamental principles of the organized labor movement have refused to listen to the false preachings of demagogues and dangerous prophets. They have turned a deaf ear to those who would either destroy or turn our great organization from its true purpose and make it a means for their own personal profit and advantage. They have refused to heed the advice of those who would destroy us."

"Let us continue along that safe and sane pathway in the year that lies ahead, hoping, praying and believing that better times and better things are in store for us."

SENDS LEAGUE REPORT ON JAPAN, MANCHURIA

Inquiry Commission Forwards 400-Page Statement Which Will Be Published Sept. 25.

By the Associated Press. SHANGHAI, Sept. 5.—The final report of the League of Nations Commission of Inquiry on Japan's military activity in Manchuria was dispatched to Geneva by plane yesterday and some members of the commission rested here briefly.

The report was signed at Peking yesterday after an all-night session. Immediately afterward the Earl of Lytton of Great Britain, chairman, flew here with a party of five. He planned to depart for Geneva some time today.

Members of the commission refused to indicate what the report recommended or found, explaining that the text would be announced Sept. 25.

In refusing to answer questions on the content of the report, Lord Lytton said:

"The report is unanimous. It will be published simultaneously in Geneva, Tokyo and Nanking. More than that I cannot tell."

The report, compiled over a period of six months, after thousands of miles of travel and on the basis of information provided by scores of individuals, comprised 400 typewritten pages and upward of 160,000 words relating to Japan's military operations in Manchuria last winter.

PHILIPPINE BILL GIVING WOMEN PROPERTY SALE RIGHTS PASSED

Allows Wives to Dispose of Own Possessions Without Consent of Husbands.

By the Associated Press. MANILA, Sept. 5.—The House of the Philippine Legislature today enacted a bill giving women of the islands the right to dispose of their own property without the consent of their husbands. The vote was 49 to 30. It was previously passed by the Senate and Governor-General Theodore Roosevelt has indicated he would sign it.

Women's club leaders hailed the enactment as a big advance toward formally recognizing the influence of Philippine women. They announced they would press for passage of the women's suffrage measure which was approved by the House a year ago, but defeated in the Senate.

Opponents of the property selling measure fought it vigorously, offering, in an attempt to kill the bill, joking amendments including one which would bar women, who use lipstick, from smoking.

WOOD RETAINS HARMSWORTH
TROPHY; DON
FORCED TO QUIT

By the Associated Press.
HARMSWORTH COURSE, DETROIT, Sept. 5.—The Jinx rode again with Kaye Don's Miss England III today and eliminated him from the second and final heat of the Harmsworth Trophy race after a thrilling start against Gar Wood, trophy defender.

Developing mechanical difficulties almost as he crossed the starting line a little less than a second ahead of Wood's Miss America X, Don made an heroic effort to keep his craft in the race. Steadily losing power, however, he came to a complete stop about a mile from the end of the second seven-mile lap of the course.

Wood, meanwhile, loomed around the course, averaging only 60.034 statute miles an hour to win the heat and retain the noted trophy.

Don, with his mechanic, Dick Garner, tried vainly to get his craft going again, but the 300,000 horsepower motor refused to start.

COCHET COASTS THROUGH HIS FIRST MATCH

By the Associated Press.
FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Henry (Bunny) Austin, England's champion, led the parade of stars through the second round of the National tennis championship at West Side Club today with an impressive victory over Berkeley Bell hard-fighting New Yorker, by scores of 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

Still playing in his convention shattering "ahora," the British ace had the upper hand except in the second set, where Bell, with a burst of super tennis, came from behind a 1-4 disadvantage to win.

Lured by the prospect of watching Henry Cochet of France and Ellsworth Vines of the United States in their opening matches, some 7000 holiday fans were in the sun-baked bowl.

George Lott Jr. of Chicago, who reached the final a year ago, had little difficulty in winning his first match from Humberto Costa of Brazil, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, putting on the pressure only at the last of each set.

Sidney Wood Jr. of New York romped to an easy victory over Ed Jenkins Jr. of New York, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3, and Clifford Sutter of New Orleans, national clay-court champion, scored over Carl Flachner of Woodbury, N. J., 6-0, 6-1, 6-2.

Takao Kuwabara, champion of Japan, continued to impress observers as he turned back Keith Warner of Los Angeles, 6-1, 6-3, 6-3.

Cochet, playing on the stadium court for the first time since 1925, made an easy but graceful debut in the tournament by defeating Jake Hess of Fort Worth, Tex., former Rice Institute star, 6-3, 6-3, 6-3.

The French ace, refusing to extend himself, was given quite a battle in the first set, with Hess leading both at 4-4 and 5-3, but when Cochet needed a point very badly he went out and got it.

The summaries.—SECOND ROUND. H. W. Austin (England) defeated Berkeley Bell (New York), 6-2, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf from an old book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some minor discoloration and faint, dark smudges or stains, particularly towards the bottom edge. The page is framed by dark borders on the left and right sides, which appear to be the edges of the book's binding or the scanner's frame. There is no text or other markings on the page.

When LIBBY HOLMAN Goes on TRIAL

Top, LIBBY HOLMAN. Below, a view of Reynolds, the Reynolds estate where the tragedy occurred.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Sept. 3. She Will Have to Overcome the Prejudices of North Carolina Natives Against Stage People—They Regard Her as Outsider.

Winston-Salem, N. C., Sept. 3. Libby Holman, deep-throated and husky-voiced Cincinnati torch singer who gained fame on Broadway with her singing of "Makin' Love," goes on trial here for the murder of her husband, R. M. Smith, Reynolds, heir to one-fourth of a fortune estimated at $50,000, who was shot to death in a rooming house in Winston-Salem.

The Broadway musical comedy star will have several things to contend with in her battle for life. First and foremost in the minds of persons is the fact that she is a "rank outsider." She comes of a strata in the social life that is entirely foreign to this community.

Libby married R. M. Smith, less than one year ago. She came to Winston-Salem in June after their wedding had been kept secret for several months, and she remained with her husband in seclusion on the palatial estate of the Reynolds family—some four miles from the industrial center. She has been battling against odds, for Libby made no effort to form friendships with the natives, other than a few who were intimate friends of the Reynolds.

Winston-Salem looks on the Reynolds widow with a curiosity that has not been satisfied. They want to know more about her. Libby has answered no questions for these people. She has made no public utterance and her testimony at the coroner's inquest left many unanswered questions. Her mind was blank for two days, she told the coroner's jury. She remembered nothing that occurred during the time in which her husband was shot.

The natives shook their heads and said "It isn't possible." No woman has ever forfeited her life since the history of the state was first recorded. One judge in A. M. Stock and a solicitor who agreed with her attorneys, she made no effort to visit the grave of her husband, whom she swore she loved.

Her father, Alfred Holman, Cincinnati attorney, who referred to the procedure of the North Carolina courts and the investigation into the death of his son-in-law, as being worse than the "Spanish Inquisition," found a friendly group of officials when he came here to face the trial. That woman was Ida Ball Warren.

Back in 1913 Ida Ball Warren and her paramour conspired to kill her husband. They lured him to a boarding house in the heart of Winston-Salem and murdered him in cold blood. His body was dismembered and Ida Ball Warren and her lover, Sam P. Crispy, placed the portions of what was once the husband of the woman in a trunk.

Behind the Screens

Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 4. BOOTS MALLORY deserves a special niche in the movie hall of fame for other reasons than her beauty. She actually is playing the role of the "producer" in the picture "Walking Down Broadway." She came to Hollywood with a Fox contract and promptly put "in school" to learn about acting.

It was Winfield Sheehan who spotted Boots in a New York show, and she would do excellently for the romantic interest in Erich von Stroheim's film, "Walking Down Broadway." She came to Hollywood with a Fox contract and promptly put "in school" to learn about acting.

She was passing Von Stroheim's office one day when the director about to be entrusted with directing again after several years devoted only to acting, called her. Boots was called back, and they met—and Von Stroheim went to see Sheehan about her. So now she has the role, apparently was destined to have it.

Boots didn't count on the part, but knew she had been signed because of it. Many stage actors come out expecting to go to work immediately on certain roles, only to find that half a dozen others have been signed for the same parts.

A small drove of green-painted boys came West for "The Man Who Came Back." Many of them went back, actually while Charlie Farrell got the part.

Boots MALLORY is to be her screen name after all, although her real one is Patricia. Von Stroheim, meanwhile, is causing all kinds of excitement on the picture. With a reputation for extravagance and waste to live down, "Von" did the almost unprecedented stunt of filming 14 scenes in four hours, and on the fourth day of production was ahead of schedule. Besides Boots, he has Jimmy Dunn, Zasu Pitts, and Minna Gombell in leading roles.

Von Stroheim wrote "Walking Down Broadway" and current events other story of his, "Her Highness," is planned for his next production, a musical.
